

I recently learned of the push to expand the low power FM services. I just wanted to make it known that I use and listen to KLOVE on a daily basis as does my wife. One of the things that is so great about KLOVE is that it is nationwide and wherever I'm traveling I can usually find the station and feel right at home.

I also attend a church in the area and know that a large number of the members also listen to KLOVE. I think that as a community it would be a great loss for us, as well as to my wife and I, personally.

I strongly believe that making broadcast services for such stations that broadcast nationally is important to the many thousands & thousands of listeners. The airwaves are one of the last remaining places where the public can freely listen to entertainment. It would be a great loss to lose this ability.
